A bit of my self

With a very mixed culture background I am a person ready to adapt herself to each new situation that arrives. The fact that I have been living in different countries with different cultures and language has given me the opportunity to learn more about myself and has helped me in my growing progress as an artist and as the person that I am now.

Eager to learn more I take each opportunity with an optimistic and open mind, learning as fast and as much as I can from it, and giving it all my efforts to make the best of it. I have learned how to be flexible, how to be daring and how to develop my communication skills. I am always looking for the best way to communicate with others as this is key when working with a group of people or on my own.

Communication is key to develop your thoughts and ideas. Even though I do not always communicate with word as my job is one of a visual artist, I don't see it as a disadvantage, on the contrary-it is a daily challenge I live with; developing new ways to reach people, thoughts and feelings through forms and colors. I have learned that there can be many answers to the same question, and that is what makes a creative life so interesting and exciting for me.
